

Who Reports to Whom?: Immigration in the New Department of Homeland Security

The new Department of Homeland Security divides into three separate agencies immigration functions that previously were combined. This reorganization raises questions about who is in charge of immigration policy as a whole and how immigration services will fare in a department heavily tilted towards enforcement.

Published On: Fri, Aug 01, 2003 | Download File [1]

Source URL:

<http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/special-reports/who-reports-whom-immigration-new-department-homeland-security>

Links:

[1] <http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/sites/default/files/docs/Brief8 - Who Reports.pdf>