

Natasha Iskander

Submitted by Anonymous on Fri, Jul 20, 2012

Natasha Iskander, Assistant Professor of Public Policy at New York University's Wagner School of Public Service, conducts research on labor migration and its relationship to economic development; labor mobilization and its relationship to workforce development; and processes of institutional innovation and organizational learning. Her work examines how the dislocations caused by migration provide opportunities for knowledge creation and economic development.

- The Politics of Skill: Rethinking the Value of "Low Skilled" Immigrant Workers [1] (IPC Perspectives, March 2012)

Source URL: <http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/natasha-iskander>

Links:

[1] <http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/perspectives/politics-skill-rethinking-value-low-skilled-immigrant-workers>