

Minnesota's Latino students weigh chance to study, work without deportation fears

Published on Mon, Aug 13, 2012

Twin Cities Pioneer Press article, "Minnesota's Latino students weigh chance to study, work without deportation fears," cites IPC's study (Who and Where the DREAMers Are), which states that more than 9,000 immigrants living in Minnesota could benefit from President Obama's deferred action: The Immigration Policy Center, a nonprofit agency that studies immigration in the U.S., puts the number at more than 9,000.

Published in the Twin Cities Pioneer Press

Source URL:

<http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/newsroom/clip/minnesotas-latino-students-weigh-chance-study-work-without-deportation-fears>