

Two Systems of Justice Paper Highlighted in Voxxi and the Huffington Post

Published on Thu, Mar 21, 2013

The IPC and LAC's Special Report, "Two Systems of Justice: How the Immigration System Falls Short of American Ideals of Justice," was highlighted in a piece by Voxxi, which was then reposted by the Huffington Post:

"The United States' justice system is supposed to operate equally for all defendants, but a new report reveals that the immigration system operates under a different set of rules for immigrants facing deportation.

The American Immigration Council issued on Tuesday a report that reveals the immigration system fails to provide "a fair process" to immigrants in removal proceedings and "lacks nearly all of the procedural safeguards we rely on and value in the U.S. justice system." The report, titled "Two Systems of Justice: How the Immigration System Falls Short of the Ideals of Justice", also explores the major operational differences between the criminal justice system and the immigration removal system."

You can read the full report here. [1]

Published in the Voxxi

Source URL:

<http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/newsroom/clip/two-systems-justice-paper-highlighted-voxxi-and-huffington-post>

Links:

[1] <http://www.americanimmigrationcouncil.org/special-reports/two-systems-justice-how-immigration-system-falls-short-american-ideals-justice>