

Money for Nothing: Immigration Enforcement without Immigration Reform Doesn

While the U.S. government has poured billions upon billions of dollars into immigration enforcement, the number of undocumented immigrants in the United States has increased dramatically. Rather than reducing undocumented immigration, this enforcement-without-reform strategy has diverted the resources and attention of federal authorities to the pursuit of undocumented immigrants who are drawn here by the labor needs of our own economy.

Published On: Thu, May 22, 2008 | Download File [1]

Source URL:

<http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/just-facts/money-nothing-immigration-enforcement-without-immigration-reform-doesn>

Links:

[1] <http://www.immigrationpolicy.org/sites/default/files/docs/MoneyForNothing05-08.pdf>